

3. a false statement made to damage someone's reputation (e.g. The editor refused to publish the _____ that could possibly destroy the politician's career.)
5. a person who helps another person perform a task that is usually criminal in nature (e.g. The police are hoping the _____ will lead them to the mastermind of the crime.)
6. a person in control of a group of people, especially military groups (e.g. The _____ ordered the troops to turn back and leave the area.)
7. the result of a substance coming into contact with oxygen, generating a deficit of electrons (e.g. During _____, the oxygen caused the paint to peel off the metal rod.)
8. intensely; suddenly (e.g. Breathing in _____, the man prepared to ask his girlfriend for her hand in marriage.)
9. a recommendation to an appropriate specialist or agency (e.g. The woman's skin condition worsened, leading her dermatologist office to give a _____ to a psoriasis clinic.)
1. traveling or existing between cities (e.g. _____ trains take the passengers from D.C. to other local cities.)
2. pertaining to a government or lawmaking group (e.g. Once the candidate won the _____ election in Great Britain, he knew he would first change the law about child abuse victims.)
4. unity that occurs among people with a shared purpose (e.g. Since John is an African American, he joined the Black Student Union in college to show _____ for his race.)
10. to use unclear language especially to deceive or mislead someone (e.g. When things are not going Margie's way, she will often twist the truth and _____ to put things in her favor.)